Welcome to Medifast

You've taken the important first step in controlling your weight and improving your health! Please read this Medifast for Teens Program Guide carefully; it will provide you with the information that you need to get started. As your body continues to grow, achieving and maintaining a healthy weight is crucial to your overall state of health. Medifast has meal plans specially designed to meet the needs of adolescents 13-18 years old. Medifast for Teens meal plans are convenient, they emphasize portion controlled eating at regular intervals throughout the day and best of all – they're simple to follow!

Medifast can help you achieve the healthy weight that's right for you. Maintaining a healthy weight allows you to live life to the fullest. Successfully lose weight and improve your health with more than 60 Medifast Meals to complement your healthy eating meal plan. Medifast is the brand recommended by over 20,000 doctors since 1980 and proven in multiple clinical studies.

Chances are, you've chosen the Medifast for Teens Program for one of two reasons: 1) you want to lose some weight, or 2) you want to maintain your current weight as you grow taller, in order to live a healthier, more active lifestyle.

The Medifast for Teens Program consists of two unique Plans: 1) the Weight Loss Plan, and 2) the Weight Maintenance Plan. Your Body Mass Index (BMI) determines which plan to choose. BMI is a calculation based on your current height and weight. Before beginning the Medifast for Teens Program, we recommend that you see your pediatrician or physician to help determine your BMI, and to determine whether this program is right for you.

After your physician determines the right plan for you, work with your physician to decide if routine monitoring is necessary while on the Medifast for Teens Program. The goal is not only to achieve a healthy weight, but to achieve it through healthy weight loss – and your physician can ensure that this goal is met.

Our goal for the Weight Loss Plan is to help you reach your goal weight by promoting gradual weight loss through healthy food choices. Our goal for the Weight Maintenance Plan is to help you stay close to your current weight as you grow taller through healthy food choices that: 1) control calorie intake, 2) are nutritionally complete, and 3) are flexible enough to adapt to an adolescent’s lifestyle.

Medifast Meals are essential to achieving your goals. Medifast Meals provide you with convenient, great-tasting, healthy, portion- and calorie-controlled foods that can be used either as meal add-ons or as snacks. The Medifast for Teens Program is high in fiber, combining the unlimited use of whole grains, fruits and vegetables with fiber-rich Medifast Meals. This combination helps to control your hunger while limiting your calorie intake. With today’s busy lifestyles, it can be difficult to follow a strict weight loss plan. The Medifast for Teens Program provides you with flexibility, through the inclusion of “Sometimes Foods” (referenced in the Plan Charts beginning on Page 13) – and through the convenient use of Medifast Meals as alternatives to traditional foods.

Actively involved parents and a motivated teen are integral to the success of the Medifast for Teens Program. Sometimes it's hard to make big changes alone, so consider enlisting a sibling or friend to get active with you and help you stick with your healthy new habits.

The Medifast for Teens Program begins with the Weight Loss Plan. Once your BMI is in the 85th-95th percentile, you can move to the Weight Maintenance Plan. When your BMI is below the 85th percentile you can use the healthy behaviors learned in the Weight Loss and Weight Maintenance Plans to support a healthy weight for a lifetime. Continue to use Medifast Meals for convenient, portion controlled meal add-ons and healthy snack choices.

Medifast support staff is here to help you if you still have questions or need more information.

Before we get started, let's brush up on some important facts about nutrition and physical activity...

Important Nutrients

Healthy eating means getting the right balance of nutrients your body needs each and every day. There are specific nutrients your body requires during adolescence. Make sure to focus on getting the following nutrients daily:

Calcium

Adequate calcium levels are important for developing strong bones. More than one-third of your adult bone mass is deposited during adolescence. Inadequate calcium intake during your teen years puts you at risk for developing osteoporosis later in life. The recommended amount of calcium is 1,200 mg every day. Consuming 3 Medifast Meals per day provides 1,050 mg of calcium. Low fat dairy products (such as milk and yogurt) are good choices to make up the difference.

Iron

During adolescence, both boys and girls need adequate amounts of iron to support their rapid growth. During growth spurts, iron helps new muscle cells obtain oxygen for energy. The recommended amount of iron for girls is 15 mg per day and for boys is 12 mg per day (girls need a little more iron to account for menstrual losses). Iron deficiency causes anemia – leading to fatigue, weakness and decreased learning ability. Consuming 3 Medifast Meals daily provides you with 13.5 mg of iron. Other good sources of iron include lean meats, fortified whole grain cereals, spinach, fish and shellfish.

Protein

Getting enough protein is important for growth, energy and the repair of body tissues (like muscles). Medifast Meals are an excellent source of protein, providing a significant portion of the 45-60 grams that an adolescent needs daily. Protein is the most satisfying (or “filling”) macronutrient, so it helps to curb your hunger.

Healthy Behaviors

You can implement healthy behaviors to help with short- and long-term weight control. To help achieve and maintain a healthy weight, the following behaviors are important:

Portion Control

One of the reasons obesity has become such an alarming problem is because serving sizes are often 2-4 times what they ought to be. This “portion distortion” leads to a passive over-consumption of calories – in other words, you’re consuming calories without even knowing what you’re eating. Meal replacements (such as Medifast Meals) are an excellent tool for learning to identify appropriate portion sizes. Did you know that restaurant portions are now 2-4 times the size of standard serving sizes? Keep this in mind: calorie content increases with portion size. Eating portion-controlled meals effectively reduces total calorie intake – and helps maintain weight loss results.

Take note of serving sizes on product packages. Consider for example, a 200-calorie, 20-ounce bottle of non-diet soda that lists 2.5 servings on the package: since the calories listed on the package are per serving, you will have consumed 500 total calories by drinking the whole bottle – which is equivalent to 5 Medifast Meals!

Eat Breakfast

Breakfast really is the most important meal of the day. Eating breakfast gives you the energy you need to start your day off right and helps you focus and learn in school. It also helps to jump-start your metabolism. Studies show that individuals who do not eat breakfast have a lower metabolic rate compared to those who do. If you're on-the-go in the morning, have a convenient Medifast Meal for breakfast.

5 or 6 Small Meals for Best Meal Frequency

Research shows that eating "three square meals" each day is really not the best method of weight control. Instead, eating every 3 hours (when we normally experience physiologic hunger) is ideal. Eating frequently keeps you feeling fuller during the day, and prevents dips in blood sugar that may lead some individuals to binge-eat. With your busy schedule, ready-to-go meal replacements are a convenient option to help ensure you eat regularly (and properly) throughout the day.

Eat Mindfully

Eat slowly! That way, your stomach can signal your brain that it is full. It takes 20 minutes for the "full signal" to reach your brain, so take time to enjoy every bite. Notice your food's flavor and texture as you eat. Limit your eating while doing other activities such as watching TV, so you remain aware of the quantity of food you are eating. Chewing each bite of food 15-20 times helps slow down the eating process, and allows you to savor the flavor of your food more.

Drink Lots of Fluids

Drink at least 6-8 cups of water each day. In addition, you may drink up to 16 ounces of any non-caloric (calorie-free) beverage including unsweetened iced tea, herbal tea, coffee, diet soda and calorie-free drink mixes such as Crystal Light® or Sugar Free Kool-Aid®.

Eat More Meals at Home

Research has demonstrated that the more meals you eat in the home (or take to school after preparing at home), the greater success you'll have with weight loss. Limit your restaurant outings (especially those involving fast-food establishments) as much as possible.

Physical Activity

Being physically active helps you build lean muscle mass and strong bones. Physical activity also increases your flexibility, improves your balance and helps you control your weight. Equally important, physical activity makes you feel good emotionally, increases your self-esteem and reduces your risk for chronic diseases like heart disease and type 2 diabetes. Watching TV and playing video games are associated with higher body fat – so replace after-school TV and video games with a fun physical activity! Make a plan to improve your health by limiting

TV and video games (screen time) to less than 2 hours each day.

Teens should be physically active for 60 minutes or more on most (preferably all) days of the week. Smaller bouts of activity (as little as 30 minutes a day) can also be beneficial. Find activities that you enjoy and can do every day. Some suggestions include:

- brisk walking
- roller skating
- gymnastics
- running
- jumping rope
- hiking
- swimming laps
- playing on the playground
- soccer
- cycling
- dancing
- tag games
- home exercise
- pleasure walking
- climbing stairs
- walking your dog
- volleyball
- shooting baskets

Aerobic activities are continuous activities that increase both your heart rate and your breathing rate. Remember to drink fluids regularly during and after physical activity to prevent dehydration.

A great way to promote healthy lifestyles is for your whole family to get involved. Spend time together through physical activity. Encourage your family to take a long walk or bike ride together a few evenings a week!

Realistic Goals

Review your current eating habits and identify where small changes might lead to healthier eating. For instance, can you cut back on drinking sweetened sodas or add more fruits and vegetables to your diet?

Next, try to identify potential “barriers” to your success – and consider ways to overcome them. Become aware of “eating triggers” and “success saboteurs” and stay away from them. For example, do you go to a fast-food place after school every day with your friends? Replace the fast-food with another activity. Instead of giving in to peer pressure, find friends who are supportive of you and your goals.

Keep a journal

Keeping a journal makes you aware of your daily eating habits. Track what, how much and how frequently you eat. Note if you’ve eaten “off-plan” foods, and also which food items you may be over-consuming. Keep a food journal on your laptop, PDA or in a paper notebook.

Eat fruits and vegetables each day

Five servings of fruits and vegetables can help keep you healthy when consumed as part of a well-balanced and nutritious eating plan.

Not a fan of fruits and vegetables? Do 5 servings sound like a lot? Getting in 5 servings each day is really not that hard! Here are some ideas:

1. slice bananas or strawberries on top of your breakfast cereal
2. have a salad with lunch
3. eat carrot sticks for an afternoon snack
4. stir some fruit into low fat yogurt
5. blend fruit and low fat yogurt with ice for a great smoothie
6. eat fruit cocktail with lunch
7. add fruit to your Medifast puddings
8. blend fruit with your Medifast shakes
9. add a vegetable (or two!) to your dinner
10. eat fresh fruit as a mid-morning snack

Try just half of these yummy suggestions and you've gotten in your 5 servings of fruits and vegetables!

Is your kitchen stocked with fruit and vegetables? No? Try keeping a bowl of fresh fruit on the counter and fresh-cut produce at eye-level in the refrigerator. To add variety and find new favorites, pick a new fruit or vegetable to try each time you visit the grocery store. Choose a variety of different colored fruits and vegetables for the most nutrition – there are so many to choose from!

Weight Loss Plan

If your BMI is >95th percentile, begin with the Weight Loss Plan.

The Weight Loss Plan charts on the following pages are gender-specific and show how many servings you should eat from each food group. You can use the Weight Loss Sample Menus as a guide to what you should eat each day.

Weight Maintenance Plan

You can move to or start with the Weight Maintenance Plan if your BMI is in the 85th-95th percentile. The Weight Maintenance Plan charts on the following pages are gender-specific and show how many servings you should eat from each food group. You can use the Weight Maintenance Sample Menus as a guide to what you should eat each day. Make sure NOT to use the Weight Maintenance Plan charts before you're ready.

*Congratulations on your decision to improve your health.
Good luck on your journey!*
